The New York World has published statistics from no less than fifty-seven trades unlons in that city Celving the number employed and unemployed. The showing is startling. It must be remembered that the World is a Democratic organ, and not under political temptation to make things uppear to be worse than they really are. On the contrary, the political blus would be in just the opposite direction. The total membership of these fitty-seven unions is 99,920. Congressional Situation.

In summing up the Congressional situation "Webb," the Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal writes: It has been suggested that the Senate of the discussion of the ciliver bill in the House of Representatives to a contempoquestion, so that whenever any measures

SPECIAL NOTICES. that practically the bliver debate in the Senate will not begin until the Hotse bill shall have readled that body. This, at least, is the information which has been obtained from one of the members of the Senate Steering Committee.

It unquestionably is a fact that Schattor Voorhees, in a meeting by the Senate Pinaines Committee has week, when authorized, offers for sale at saked whether it would be probable that the Senate would accept 50 bill of the House for the repeal of the lallyer purchase clause without condition, said:] "It is not probable or possible, and, for

The attempts that have been made to ascertain what policy the free columns men in the Senate will adopt with regard to the carly closing of debate have resulted in securing some very clear and emphatic statements from the leaders of that faction. There is one thing about these gentlemen—their frankpess is as noteworthy as their sincerity.

Senator Stewart was today asked whether, if the bill to repok! the silver purchase clause without conditions should come from the House to the Benate, it would be the policy of the Senate to adopt some such plan with regard to closing debate as has been adopted in the House of Representatives. Mr. Stewart answered with energy and vigor:

"Not at all, not at all. (There is no haste in this matter. The people ought to be educated. They never have been educated. This is an opportunity to do that. We shall endeavor to educate, them. It is a very great question as to which there is wonderful ignorance. We hope to be able to dispel some of that ignorance. The Senate will be in no inate. Since you ask my views upon the aubject, I venture to predict that we shall be here a year from now and shall be here all of the time until then; and, when the twelve months' period shall have passed. I think you will and us talking about allver. This is, to be a campaign of education. The thempth campaign of education. The people must be instructed," The remarks of Senator Stewart certainly are not without againcance. There is no longer any talk of an attempt at elecure in the Senate. There meyer has been any serious talk of that character. The indications appear to be increasing that the compact which was
